Dear Colleague

'Well at Work' scheme extended until end of August

Well at Work provide immediate, impartial business advice and occupational health services to businesses in Westminster.

Occupational health issues include stress, neck and back pain, drug and alcohol misuse, work injuries and other work related illnesses.

Launched in 2009, over 500 businesses have now received free advice. This demand has led the service to be extended until the end of August 2010.

The Well at Work team can offer solutions such as physiotherapy or counselling to address work-related ill-health, as well as make recommendations on how to improve your workplace to manage the risks to health and promote employee wellbeing. Such measures not only work to lower absenteeism but also improve business efficiency. Well at Work can also advise employers on how to implement the new 'fit note' being issued to employees by GPs.

To take advantage of the free and confidential service, please call 020 7641 5600 or email wellatwork@westminster.gov.uk
